It's that time of year when my social media blows up with pictures of friends on mission trips. All summer I will see beautiful scenery from all over the world. It is amazing how many wonderful things my friends will get to experience while on mission. Over the years I've started to notice a disappointing trend, I can't tell the difference between mission pictures and vacation pictures. These trips are designed to be extremely intense with high impact due to the short amount of time that you get to spend actually on mission. It's extremely important that these trips are approached with the right heart and attitude. While foreign travel and adventure has a definite allure of its own, it's imperative that we keep the main thing, "the main thing"! The mission trips that impacted me the most are the ones where God's kingdom was expanded.

We should always remember that you don't need a passport to serve Christ! There are hundreds of opportunities right here at home. I don't think I've heard of anyone taking a week-long vacation to serve locally. It just doesn't have the same appeal as foreign travel, but it has the same need! May God always show us opportunities to serve at home as well as abroad and may we approach both with the same heart and the same excitement!

All things in Christ!
Steve Shierling

YOUTH & EDUCATION NEWS:

Rev. Nick Hampton

Where am I going? How do I get there? These two questions were at the forefront of my mind as my wife and I began the process of praying through our future and the calling God had placed on our lives. The decisions to be made were not easy but the direction was very clear, that God was calling us back to our hometown to a new ministry in a new way.

Where are you going? How do you get there? When we rest in the plans that God has for us these questions and many more become easier to answer!

Called to serve Him,
Rev. Nick Hampton
