Pastor Chris & wife Elisabeth

I went to the eye doctor today for a thorough exam. I had the experience of getting a puff of air blown in both eyes, eye drops applied to cause dilation, and then I learned I need progressive glasses. I also learned that I have "junior cataracts" in both eyes. Not the same as adult cataracts. They are cataracts that I've most likely had since I was born and will not progress or get worse. There will never be a need to do anything about them. But still, it was strange to learn something about myself I never knew. To think that I've had these "cataracts" for forty-three years and never knew it. What else do I not know about me? Actually, there is probably a lot. Our whole lives we are continually learning about many things, including ourselves. We all have things in our nature, personality, habits, etc. that we are slow to notice or learn. There is a particular condition that we all have but may not be aware of. And each of us must come to the point in our lives when we learn that we've had something within us since birth that we may or may not have been aware of. A sin nature. It is an issue that must be addressed and, praise God, HAS been addressed through the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus Christ. We are sinners by nature and we can become born again by grace.

Have you confessed you are a sinner, repented of your sins, believed on the Lord Jesus Christ that you may be "reconciled to God" and be saved? If not, begin a new journey today by trusting Him.

You will have new life and begin to see things more clearly when you do.

In Christ,
Pastor Chris

YOUTH NEWS::

steve@bemiss.com

Youth Minister Steve & wife Tami

Have you ever gotten a song stuck in your head, maybe not one that you listen to you all the time, but one from years past that you hear something that makes you think of it and then you can't help but have it in your head for the next couple of days? Well for most of last week it was "Me and Bobby McGee" by Janis Joplin that I could not get rid of! As I kept thinking about this one song, a particular line made me start thinking about what she was actually saying. This line was "but I would trade all of my tomorrows for a single yesterday". The more that I thought about this line the sadder I felt for this young lady. If any of you know the story of Janis Joplin, and the miserable way she left this Earth, this line makes perfect sense. But the Christian faith is the exact opposite of this line. God is willing to wipe away all of our yesterdays for the promise of an eternal future.

It's not just the lost that feel this way, there's a lot of people that have lost loved ones have told me what they would give just to spend one more hour or one more day with that person. But I believe this is not the way that God wanted us to feel. His word tells us that He has plans for us to prosper not to wade in despair. He wants us to live in The Hope that He speaks of in I Thessalonians 4:13. We will rejoice with those that have fallen asleep in eternity, but as for now we will do as Jesus instructed a would-be follower, to let the "dead bury the dead" and we will focus on the days that we have to share the love of Christ with others.

We shouldn't walk this earth mourning for days past, but rejoicing in each minute that we have been given. I wish that poor Janice and all my friends could wake up each morning and remember the verse; This is the day that the Lord has made, let us rejoice and be glad in it!

All things in Christ,
Steve Shierling

Minister of Music John & wife Jeanette

...To Proclaim the Gospel...

The Gospel and Our Sin - what was of first importance to Paul is also of first importance to us:

Christ died for our sins.

It's not enough to merely sing about Christ dying for our sins, we need to understand the benefits of what God accomplished through that act.

If Christ died for my sins, that means I'm no longer under God's wrath. I don't have to live with the burden of guilt. I am completely and finally forgiven.

See you in worship,
John
